II. CO-CURRICULARS

Jesuit schools strive to educate the whole person. So, our co-curricular program is an essential part of what we do. Clubs and activities, yearbook and newspaper, music and sports and student government all help our students to build habits essential to being effective Men for Others. Just like God's world needs people with academic training, it also needs people with self-discipline and perseverance, people who can work as a team toward a common goal. Whether in the Plank Room or the pool, the baseball field or in Band, our co-curricular program helps instill these traits in our students.

III. CAMPUS MINISTRY AND CHRISTIAN SERVICE

Our Campus Ministry and Christian Service Programs are at the heart of our identity as a Jesuit school. As we grow in knowledge in classes and build crucial habits and characteristics in our co-curricular program, Campus Ministry and Christian Service remind us that all of this learning and growing is to be used for the greater glory of God and the good of God’s people, especially those most in need and those pushed to the margins. These programs remind us that true faith ultimately must lead to justice, that our call is to build a world that more closely resembles what God has in mind for his children.

IV. GENERAL EXCELLENCE

Jesuit schools strive to form people of excellence. At Jesuit High School, excellence means outstanding work in academics and dedicated participation in co-curricular activities as it would at other schools; but here, excellence also means respect for others, honesty and integrity, concern for those most in need, and loyalty to the school community. Like Jesuit schools across the country, Jesuit Sacramento strives to form young people who are increasingly open to growth, intellectually competent, religious, loving, and committed to doing justice. The General Excellence Award is given to students who are growing in extraordinary ways in each of these areas.

VI. ST. THOMAS MORE AWARDS

The St. Thomas More Award is named after the English scholar, statesman and saint, who was in his time the most popular and respected man in England and second only to the King in power. Thomas More sacrificed all, including his life, by refusing to swear a false oath before God. He lived out the motto: “To thine own self be true,” and is known to all ages as “the Man for All Seasons.”

Each member of the faculty is invited to recommend a student from the classes he or she teaches for this award – a student who, often quietly and inconspicuously, embodies the ideals of the school and exemplifies the integrity for which Thomas More is so admired.
