Jesuit High School (JHS) is a Sacramento regional Catholic high school that provides young men with a life-building experience and delivers an academically rigorous college preparatory education to prepare graduates for lives of leadership and service.

Founded in 1963, the JHS student body represents diversity in geography, ethnicity, religious affiliation, and socioeconomic background. Along with fostering a Men for Others culture of service, JHS has one of the region's most successful men's athletic programs, more than 22 visual and performing arts offerings, a robust Honors and Advanced Placement curriculum, and a club for every passion.

Dear Parents, Alumni, Alumni Parents, Benefactors, and Friends of Jesuit High School:

Having just completed my first year as President, I greet you all with gratitude to God, and to all of you, for your generous support, encouragement, and enthusiasm for the mission of Jesuit High School, especially for the wonderful students we are so blessed to have in our school, year after year!

I am also keenly aware of our 10,000 alumni who are so important to Jesuit High School as well. It was an honor to award diplomas to the members of the Class of 2019, who are now our newest alumni! The future of the school depends upon our ongoing connection with you.

Throughout the history of Jesuit schools around the world, success in fulfilling the mission of Catholic, Jesuit education has always depended upon the generosity of people. This is particularly true in the history of Jesuit High School of Sacramento. When our schools, families, and the broader community work together, our Jesuit schools become healthy, transformative communities where people flourish and lives are changed for the better. Our alumni can attest to this fact.

As President, I have the privilege of telling the full story of Jesuit High School out in the community. It is an honor that I very much enjoy. I talk about our amazing students, our talented, dedicated faculty and staff, generous alumni, and the supportive parents who entrust us with their sons, volunteer their time and talent, and who sacrifice to pay tuition and fees at Jesuit High School.

Service and support are part of Jesuit High School's DNA. They bond us together, committed to our students, our faith and our community. It is not about how much one gives or how many hours we volunteer. If we all give a little, the return is infinite, and the mission of Jesuit High School is strengthened.

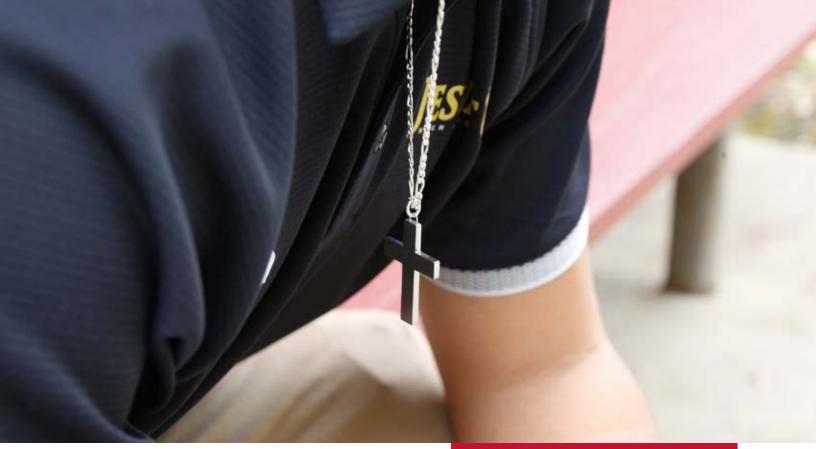

I am grateful to God for the opportunity to partner with so many wonderfully generous people in meeting the goals for the education and formation of our students on their path to be a Man for Others. In this issue of our Jesuit Magazine, you will read stories that capture the essence of our great mission. Thank you for your time, talent, and treasure. We will never take your support for granted and want you to know that we couldn't do it without you! God bless you and your families.

Jesuit is much more than a school. We are a community of people who care for one another, and who help our students build a foundation for life.

Gratefully, Ool. P. McJamy. Rev. John P. McGarry, S.J.

CURA PERSONALIS

The holistic approach of counseling and wellness

High school and the teenage years are complex. There are many different factors pulling at our students on any given day. The philosophy of the Jesuit High School Counseling Department is rooted firmly in the Jesuit concept of cura personalis. In caring for the whole person, Jesuit counselors work to build relationships with our students from the time they enter 9th grade. We want to learn about them, what motivates them, obstacles they may have faced, and goals they have for their future. By establishing this relationship from the beginning and spending the next four years together, we get to know our students better than most. We watch them mature in body and mind during their high school years and we are proud to be a part of their journey.

The addition of the Wellness Program focuses on small group counseling, crisis intervention, behavioral health awareness and referrals to community resources. These services are offered throughout the school year. This school year, the Counseling Department approached mental health and wellness topics during the Behavioral Health Assemblies. These events were in collaboration with and in support of the 12th Annual Jesuit Social Justice Summit.

The Barry Gym was at the heart of our events this year, housing all 1,000-plus students, faculty and staff in one place to hear the message of our year-long theme. In December 2018, we welcomed alumnus Chris Sullivan '98 back to campus, where he delivered a meaningful talk to our school community on self-care, mindfulness, gratitude and being present for each other. In February 2019, Kevin Hines delivered the keynote address on his journey after surviving his jump off the Golden Gate Bridge and, in April, the cast from our Black Box Theater sang a moving piece from their spring musical, We Need Some Light, for the whole school.

We are proud of the work our students and school community have done this year in creating healthy dialogue around wellness, self care and in care of others; this is love in action for the greater glory of God.

"LIFE IS A GIFT, THAT IS WHY THEY CALL IT THE PRESENT. CHERISH IT ALWAYS."

AP CAPSTONE

Advanced Placement Diploma Program Focuses on College-Level Research, Collaboration, and Presentation Skills Crucial for College and Career Success

Jesuit High School is one of approximately 1,800 schools worldwide to implement the AP Capstone[™] Diploma program - an innovative program that allows students to develop the skills that matter most for college success, such as research, collaboration, and communication. The program consists of two courses taken in sequence: AP Seminar and AP Research.

Students who score a 3 or higher in AP Seminar and AP Research, and on four additional AP Exams of their choosing, earn the AP Capstone DiplomaTM. This signifies outstanding academic achievement and attainment of collegelevel academic and research skills. Students who score a 3 or higher in both AP Seminar and AP Research (but not on four additional AP Exams) earn the AP Seminar and Research CertificateTM.

Jesuit High School will start offering AP Seminar in the fall of 2019.

"Our Jesuit education strives to form students who fall in love with learning while promoting a depth of understanding that moves beyond the superficial," said Michael Wood'99, Principal of Jesuit High School. "This innovative program will allow our students to explore, with expert guidance, customized topics that align with their passions and will deepen their ability to become Men for Others, preparing our highly-motivated students for college and beyond."

In AP Seminar, typically taken in 10th or 11th grade, students choose and evaluate complex topics through multiple lenses; identify credibility and bias in sources; and develop arguments in support of a recommendation. AP Seminar is a project-based learning course. Official AP Seminar assessments include research reports, written arguments, and presentations completed during the academic year.

In the subsequent AP Research course, students design, execute, present, and defend a year-long research-based investigation on a topic of individual interest. They build on skills developed in AP Seminar by learning how to understand research methodology; employ ethical research practices; and collect, analyze, and synthesize information to contribute to academic research. Like AP Seminar, AP Research is a project-based course. Each student's official AP Research score is based on their academic paper, presentation, and oral defense.

A Message From THE PRINCIPAL

When I think about my own graduation from Jesuit High School in 1999, I remember feeling an overwhelming sense of happiness. I was surrounded by family, I had learned to cherish my Jesuit experience, I had the courage to share my faith experience, and I felt cared for and supported by my peers. I also recall being enormously proud of my classmates who were receiving graduation awards — specifically Ben Sharpe '99, our Valedictorian. I was amazed at what they had accomplished and was sincere in my appreciation of my classmates. As I look back on that day and the different feelings and emotions that came with it, I find consolation in the kind of person I was at graduation. I felt worthy of love and was able to appreciate the many gifts and blessings in my life. It is fair to say that when I look back on that version of myself, I am proud of that person, and in some ways, could also benefit from listening to that person today.

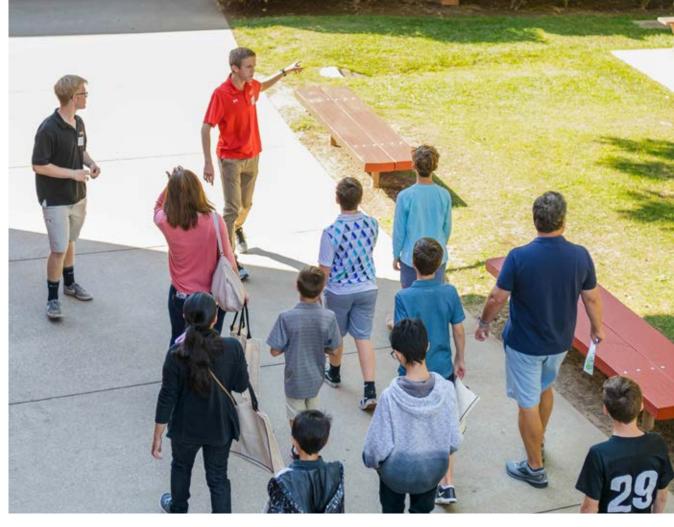

Similar to my own, I remember the Jesuit High School graduations of my brothers. My older brother graduated in 1997, with my younger brother following me in 2000. For each of the ceremonies, I recall sitting in the bleachers looking down at a sea of red gowns. The young men who filled these gowns were inspired and ready to make their mark on the world. I can still hear Jeff Geremia's Valedictory Address in 2000, when he asked us to listen closely to the voices of Marauders past who have paved the way for the rest of us. My family still talks about that speech.

As Principal, I have the honor of presiding over our commencement ceremony each year. While I can admit that I always feel some anxiety when planning and executing such an important event, I mostly feel humbled. I have the honor of reading aloud the name of each graduate to be heard by the student, his peers, his family, and his supporters. I take that responsibility seriously and spend a great deal of time reviewing and practicing the full names of each graduate. Each name that comes through the speakers is read with respect and pride. Graduation is about the graduates and their families. They are the focus throughout the ceremony, right down to the very end when we participate in one last "Triple J."

The Class of 2019 is particularly special to me, since we all came to Jesuit together. I am proud of their growth and maturity through the last four years and am grateful to have journeyed with them. Many prayers and blessings to the Class of 2019.

Dr. Michael Wood '99, Principal

FRESHMAN EXPERIENCE

Seniors help guide the newest Marauders on more than tours

Jesuit High School's Big Brother Program, coordinated by Campus Ministry, matches rising Seniors and incoming Freshmen with the hope that Big Brothers will help Freshmen adjust to high school life academically, socially and personally.

Typically, Seniors simply start out serving as a tour guide for the first few weeks of the school year; however, sometimes the pairing turns into an authentic friendship, with both the Freshmen and Seniors gaining from the connection and developing a bond that lasts far longer than the start of school.

Saverio Bernardi '19 became a Big Brother last year because he had a great Big Brother and wanted to pass on that experience to the new Freshmen. Each Senior is paired with two Freshmen during orientation and also for their retreat weekend. "My Big Brother was a great help and I knew I could go to him whether it was about things in high school or life in general. I knew he was always there to help me," shared Bernardi.

"It's just awesome coming in and having a great Big Brother," shared Christian Covert '22. "At orientation he showed me everything, with lots of tips, and it was just so easy thinking that I am okay and can do everything by myself now."

Bernardi worked hard to help his Little Brothers acclimate to Jesuit, and both of them made it through the year well.

From the very beginning, Jesuit works to make sure new students feel comfortable and become involved. Freshman counselors meet individually with students to determine how to make their transition to Jesuit as easy as possible.

Also within the first few weeks of school, the Freshman class, along with their Big Brothers, spend a meaningful and memorable two days together during the annual Retreat Weekend. But the care for our newest Marauders doesn't end there. Quarterly Freshman collaborations help orient the Freshmen with the traditions and events at Jesuit and give the Freshmen a chance to meet new friends.

Jesuit knows that Freshman year can be a big transition, and we are here to care for them when they walk through our doors.

SEE YOU SOON

The best way to learn about Jesuit is to be at Jesuit

For Matthew Ramos '05, Director of Admissions, it had been 14 years since Jesuit was last a part of his daily routine. His positive experiences as a student at Jesuit impacted his decision to return as a member of the staff. Ramos acknowledged that many things have changed on the Jesuit campus, but a lot has stayed the same. There are new buildings to navigate, new fields to admire, new classrooms for learning, and new faces to meet, but all remain rooted in brotherhood, spiritual growth, "life" preparedness, and excellence in learning. The trees may be a bit taller, but the tradition of forming competent young men into the conscientious leaders of tomorrow remains alive and stronger than ever.

Welcoming the Class of 2023 was as much a lesson in quick-learning for Ramos, coming onboard in the midst of the admission season, as it was a time to reminisce about the place he holds so dear in his heart.

"Jesuit is a special place — a community — where young men learn, compete, and pray on a campus that continues to grow and evolve." Ramos shared, "The next step in our growth is a newly renovated gym...with air conditioning!"

"From Freshman Overnight to school-wide Mass to a hard-fought battle on the hardwood, the Barry Gym is a beacon of community gathering here on campus, and we — all 10,000 alumni — are eager to see its transformation come to fruition and be the place for countless more stories to be written by our newest class of students."

"JESUIT IS MORE THAN JUST A SCHOOL — SOMETHING I AM REMINDED OF EVERY DAY ON THE JOB AND IN LIFE. IT IS A BROTHERHOOD AND A FAMILY."

—MATTHEW RAMOS, '05

The admissions team, which also includes Jon Rotz '92 and Debbie Case, looks forward to the 2019-2020 school year, and are excited to welcome our future Marauders to campus. They pride themselves on making Jesuit as accessible to prospective families as possible. Whether they attend Open House, Shadow Days, a Neighborhood Dinner or a private campus tour, Ramos and his admissions team know the best way to learn about the Jesuit tradition is to physically be on campus, ask questions, and experience Jesuit High School firsthand.

"THE MIGRANTS WERE LIKE MY FAMILY WHILE I WAS THERE, NOT JUST A RANDOM GROUP. THE TRIP TAUGHT ME THAT WE SHOULD FOCUS ON BRINGING JUSTICE TO THE BORDER AND DOING GOD'S WORK."

—ANTONIO VALLEJO '19

AT THE BORDER

Jesuit students learn about social justice through an immersive learning experience

People enter a white-washed adobe church; music floats through the air. From within the church, the priest says to the congregation, "Peace be with you." Adjacent to the church is a metal and concrete fence that pierces the land and stretches into a rugged hill beyond.

This is the scene witnessed by rising Jesuit Seniors who participate in their Christian Service immersion with the Kino Border Initiative at the Arizona-Mexico border.

The program is a fulfillment of the important Jesuit missions of education and social justice, which Rev. Peter-Hans Kolvenbach, S.J., 29th Superior General of the Society of Jesus, poignantly summarized in an address at Santa Clara University in 2000.

"Students, in the course of their formation, must let the gritty reality of this world into their lives, so they can learn to feel it, think about it critically, respond to its suffering and engage it constructively," Fr. Kolvenbach said. "They should learn to perceive, think, judge, choose and act for the rights of others, especially the disadvantaged and the oppressed."

Jesuit High School President, Rev. John P. McGarry, S.J., agrees. "The goal of a Jesuit education in the 21st century is that our students become people for and with others, and leaders and agents of change for good in the world," McGarry said. "We prioritize service so that our students can integrate their learning through encounters with other people."

Through the Kino Border Initiative, Jesuit students directly engage in humanitarian opportunities with migrants, where they learn about some of the issues surrounding the complex topic of immigration. Based on the stories shared by students upon their return, the trip is successfully fulfilling the Jesuit mission and making a lasting impression.

"I was sharing a conversation with a migrant named Daniel—not small talk, but asking him about his life experiences and sharing my own," said Jesuit student Antonio Vallejo '19, who participated in a Kino trip. "Toward the end of our conversation, I complimented him on the rosary he was wearing, telling him how beautiful it was and that he should keep it safe. Without hesitation, he took it off and gave it to me."

Deeply moved by this man's generosity in the midst of his own vulnerability, Vallejo graciously accepted the gift and said he promised to pray for Daniel.

According to many students who have participated in Kino immersions, the trip has become all the more poignant and impactful considering how much the immigration issue has been grabbing U.S. news headlines.

"After hearing countless stories from migrants, U.S. residents living along the border, Border Patrol agents, humanitarian workers, and members of the judicial branch, it is understandable why immigration is such a complex issue to address," said Vallejo.

In reflecting on their time with Kino, the recently graduated Vallejo summarized his experience by quoting a passage from the book, "Tattoos on the Heart," by Rev. Greg Boyle, S.J.

"There is no us and them," he said, "just us."

Since 2006, the Kino Border Initiative, or Initiative Kino para la Frontera, has been made possible through the partnership of six Catholic organizations, including the Jesuits, to provide humanitarian aid and education to recently deported migrants.

Border immersions are also held in Tijuana, Mexico.

PEER PARTNERS IN MINISTRY

Jesuit's unique approach to retreats has lasting impact on campus culture

The Jesuit High School Student-Parent Handbook states that the purpose of the school's retreat program is "to cultivate both deeper self-affirmation and acceptance of God's unconditional love."

It is one thing to make this statement; it is quite another to successfully put these words into action. Yet, Jesuit is able to fulfill this mission year after year because of the school's unique, holistic and inclusive approach to organizing and running retreats where students—specifically Seniors—lead the way.

Paying it forward

During their journey at Jesuit, each young man has four opportunities to participate in Campus Ministry-sponsored, peer-led retreats. Each of the retreats has a central theme and corresponding activities that are intended to help Jesuit students cultivate a deeper knowledge of one's self, reflect on how one's actions impact others, and foster a closer relationship with God.

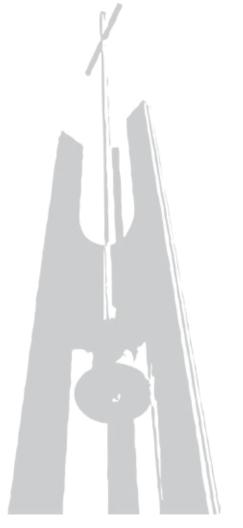

These retreats are led by members of the Jesuit Senior Retreat Team (SRT) — a carefully selected group of dedicated Seniors who have a sincere desire to pay it forward by providing their fellow Marauders with meaningful retreat experiences.

"I FEEL MORE WELCOME AFTER THE RETREAT BECAUSE NOW I FEEL LIKE EVERYBODY CARES ABOUT ME. LIKE, EVERYTHING ABOUT ME— MY LEARNING AND MY PERSONAL LIFE."

-RYAN ANDERSON '22, RETREAT PARTICIPANT

The members of the SRT give generously of their time, often having to come in early for training and retreat preparations on late-start days, or performing tasks such as patrolling the hallway of Christ the King Retreat Center at midnight.

However, when asked about the commitment—rather than focusing on the sacrifices of time, sleep, or the need to make up missed classwork—they're more likely to talk about the joy of sharing the retreat experiences with their younger "brothers."

"The sense of serving shoulder to shoulder to provide others with a meaningful retreat experience permeates the spirit of the young men on the team," said Assistant Director of Campus Ministry Kelly Barnes, "and they do it in such a way that the rising students want to join in. Each year there are many students who express a desire to serve on the SRT to provide their brothers with the opportunities to encounter themselves, each other, and God in a meaningful way."

Big Brothers

Freshmen are led through an overnight retreat experience by Seniors who act as big brothers to the Freshmen. The theme of the Freshman retreat is, "My life is a gift from my family, my friends, and my God; upon this I shall build." The activities are designed to welcome the Freshmen into the brotherhood of Jesuit High School and introduce them to the call to be Men for Others.

Middle Classmen

The SRT assumes the mantle of leadership, especially when leading the Sophomores and Juniors through their retreats. During the retreats, SRT facilitates the majority of presentations and all small-group activities. The theme of the Sophomore retreat is, "The Man

"A RETREAT ALWAYS SOUNDED JUST LIKE ANOTHER DAY OFF. BUT AFTER ATTENDING AND THEN LEADING THE SOPHOMORE AND JUNIOR RETREATS, I SAW GOD'S LOVE IN ACTION THROUGH THE COMMUNITY HERE AT JESUIT. TOGETHER IN OUR SMALL GROUPS WE LISTENED TO OUR PEERS' AND OUR OWN ASPIRATIONS AND FAILURES SO THAT, WITH GOD'S LOVE GUIDING US, WE COULD SUPPORT EACH OTHER IN OUR GROWTH AS MEN.

AFTER THESE EXPERIENCES, A RETREAT BECAME MORE THAN JUST TIME OFF. RETREAT WAS A TIME TO START AND THEN CONTINUE OUR JOURNEY WITH GOD TO BECOME THE MEN WE HOPE TO BE."

—JAKE LIBERTY '19, OUTGOING SRT LEADER

I Am Called to Be." With this focus, students explore the gifts and talents they have been given as well as reflect upon potential roadblocks that may prevent them from living their true purpose.

The Junior retreat builds upon the theme from Sophomore year and takes it one step further with the theme of "Justice for All." In this theme, students are invited to reflect on how one's individual and group decisions affect the lives of others as well as one's own future. Here, members of the SRT talk about how to find God in all things and share a personal experience of discovering one's

"I APPLIED FOR SENIOR RETREAT TEAM BECAUSE OF THE GREAT EXAMPLE THAT PREVIOUS YEARS HAD SET. THEY WERE THE MEN ON CAMPUS THAT I LOOKED UP TO. FROM MY FIRST EXPERIENCE AT FRESHMAN

true self or about how one's decisions impacted others. The messages are impactful because Seniors are generous, open and honest in sharing stories from their lives.

Creating a campus culture of ministry

Ultimately, the impact of the contributions of the SRT are limitless. They create a commitment to ministry that persists and pervades the campus culture at Jesuit.

It is through relationships that the SRT members build with other Marauders, both at retreats and in their day-to-day life, that, together, impacts all Jesuit students in strengthening their relationships with God.

BRINGING YOUR PASSIONS TOGETHER

Fall in Love—a moment of reflection with Ministry, Service & Arts

ATTRIBUTED TO FR. PEDRO ARRUPE, S.J. (1907-1991)

Nothing is more practical than finding God, than falling in Love in a quite absolute, final way.

What you are in love with, what seizes your imagination, will affect everything. It will decide what will get you out of bed in the morning, what you do with your evenings, how you spend your weekends, what you read, whom you know, what breaks your heart, and what amazes you with joy and gratitude. Fall in Love, stay in love, and it will decide everything.

FINDING HAPPINESS

Obinna Okoye '19-my life from athlete to thespian

I came to Jesuit with one main goal — to play basketball. I wanted to play in high school, college and professionally. It was a dream I'd had since I was 10 years old. So, if you would have told me then that I would have quit basketball by the end of my high school career, I definitely wouldn't have believed you. As hard as it was at the time, looking back now I realize quitting was the best decision I made as a student at Jesuit.

It started at the end of my Freshman basketball season. I made the team and had done well, but I started to lose the spark and my love for the game. I didn't want to go to practice and when I did go, I wasn't into it like I used to be. I would just count the minutes until the end of practice instead of using that time to improve. I started to feel like basketball was more of a chore instead of the thing I loved to do.

No matter how much I tried to fight it, the feeling only continued into my Sophomore year. I didn't play fall ball like I had done in the past and as the season approached, I found myself finding excuses to skip morning workouts. At one practice toward the end of the season, we had to run line drills. Each time I sprinted across the floor, my heart and passion for the game drained from my body. When I finished the last line drill, I remember closing my eyes, putting my head down, and asking myself, "Why are you doing this?" At that moment I knew my passion for the sport was gone.

When I quit it felt like a breath of fresh air, at first. I felt less stressed, like a weight was lifted off my shoulders. Soon, however, the void of not having basketball in my life set in.

I lost a lot of friends — or our friendships weren't the same — because we didn't have basketball in common anymore. Also, I realized that basketball was the only thing that I really had done at Jesuit. It was "my thing" and I felt like I'd let go of the one thing that gave me my identity.

I was lonely and lost during this time. I got absorbed into social media to the point that it affected my studying. I tried Track & Field, but soon I realized that, like what happened with basketball, I was only doing it because I didn't want to be by myself, not because I enjoyed it.

Then, as I began my Junior year, God started to show me "my thing."

I enrolled in a digital photography class and loved it. Photography then led me to join the media team, which is still a huge part of my life. This opened me up to listen to something even better that God had planned for me.

It happened one day after school. I walked into the Harris Center Lobby just as someone was setting up for a Drama meeting. I went to the meeting and discovered the show they were doing was a piece on homelessness called Isaiah Says. Once I learned that, something inside me kept telling me to audition. I decided to go for it!

Going to the audition was one of the most nerveracking things I've ever done but, once I made it onto the stage, I felt different. Energy filled me up, I was excited and motivated. After I finished I looked around and knew this was exactly where I was supposed to be.

I was cast in Isaiah Says and since then I have been in several other plays: Wonka, The Elephant Man, and We Need Some Light.

My involvement in the arts also has led me to find other activities: Liturgy Workshop, Campus Ministry, Campus Ministry Core Team, Religious Coordinator, and Senior Retreat Team. I also went on Kairos my Junior year and I got to lead Kairos my Senior year, which was one of the biggest highlights of my time at Jesuit.

Although making the change from basketball was hard, I'm so glad it happened. Overcoming that difficulty and listening to God led me to being involved with the arts, where I found "my thing" and a group of people who share the same interests as me, accept me, and love me for the person I am.

Proudly running in his Marauder colors, with a smooth stride and a determined game face — Matt Strangio '20 has become familiar in California Interscholastic Federation (CIF) meets both on the track and the cross country course.

Strangio is a multiple CIF State champion, a remarkable career, still with his senior year to go. Strangio threw his hands up triumphantly when he crossed the finish line at the Track Championships in spring. He is being hailed as the next great distance star at Jesuit, which has featured eight CIF State distance track champions under 49-year-distance coach Walt Lange, dating to the mid-1980s.

Strangio is inspired by those Marauder legends — Eric Mastalir '86 and Mark Mastalir '86, Paul Thomas '87, David Welsh '89, Matt Farley '94, and Michael Stember '96. He is one of them now, by every measure. Strangio, with a time of 4:08:07, held off defending CIF champion Liam Anderson of Redwood High School (Larkspur), who was third at 4:10.26, and Colin Peattie of Bellarmine High School (San Jose), who was second at 4:09.99.

Strangio attempted to pull off the brutal distance double, placing third in the 3,200 in 8:57.69 at the Track Championships. This state win fell on the heels of a stellar cross country season finish with CIF-State Division 1 title and an 8th place finish at Nike Cross Nationals.

"I felt good, was ready, and it's definitely a great feeling to do this with my best friends, guys I know well," Strangio said. As summer turns to fall, Strangio now returns to his distance routine and Cross Country.

The wooden planks could tell stories of inspiring speeches, dances, dramatic productions, cheering, liturgies and quiet reflection. Community involvement in the Barry Gym Renovation Project will help to ensure this historic place is strong enough to carry the hopes, dreams and stories of many generations to come.

Established in 1955 as a dynamic group of women working together for the betterment of the community, and later supporting the development of the all-boys Jesuit High School in 1963, the Loyola Guild is a non-profit corporation of Jesuit parents and friends that fosters the educational and social needs of the high school community. The Guild sponsors annual events, with much of those profits going to tuition assistance and operation needs. Volunteer opportunities are plentiful - this is a great way for parents to get involved, make lifelong friends and stay connected, even after graduation!

Our new VIP Portal, Helper Helper, allows families to see all volunteer opportunities in one convenient site, as well as track all hours online. Athletics, concerts, social events, fundraisers, and many other volunteer needs are posted, allowing families to choose what calls them to serve.

Sunget on the SERENGETI

Jesuit held its 47th Annual Auction & Gala, Sunset on the Serengeti, on March 23, 2019. The Barry Gymnasium on campus was transformed into an African safari, complete with a large canvas tent entrance surrounded by images of elephants and giraffes, and lighting that created a gorgeous sunset glow.

Guests were treated to a festive evening with beautiful music, a fabulous dinner, heartfelt messages from alumni, and fantastic live and silent auction items—all in the name of raising money for Jesuit.

With nearly 500 guests attending, this year's Auction raised $880,000 for the school! The Auction benefits each student by providing a high-level education, robust co-curricular activities, excellent visual and performing arts programs and tuition assistance — all of which is not possible through tuition alone.

The Auction & Gala event builds upon an already dynamic community of parents, alumni and community supporters. Thank you to our gracious Auction chairs, Nancy & Ken Dyer, for their unwavering commitment to a successful event. Their enthusiasm, creativity and support was appreciated and recognized by Jesuit.

This annual event would not be possible without the support of those who donated incredible items to the auction, as well as the assistance of more than 200 volunteers, students, faculty and staff. Each individual's dedication of time, talent and treasure was vital to the success of the auction.

PATRONS CIRCLE

The Auction & Gala is Jesuit's largest annual fundraising event. The success of the Auction is due in large part to the generosity of our Patrons Circle sponsors. In January, our sponsors gather at a festive cocktail party and are honored by Jesuit's President, Rev. John P. McGarry, S.J.

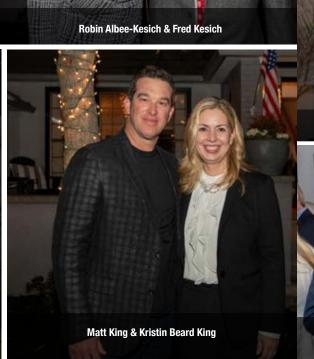

Thank you to Griff'89 & Christy Reid for hosting this wonderful event in their beautiful East Sacramento home.

FACE TO A NAME

Meet Julia Clark, Director of Annual Giving

This summer I have had the opportunity to meet many of our new Freshman parents. It has been a joy to give our newest Marauder parents a call to chat and welcome them to the Jesuit family. They are excited, a bit nervous, and full of hope for all that the Jesuit experience will bring for their son. These conversations bring back memories of when I was a Freshman parent and my son (Neil '07) first walked onto campus to begin his journey. Once a Jesuit parent, always a Jesuit parent and no matter the era, we are all linked by the desire for our sons to receive a Jesuit education.

Although my son has long since graduated, in my role within the Office of Advancement I have the good fortune to see firsthand the wonderful education our students continue to receive today. I am blessed to be able to interact with current and former families and hear how their time here made an impact on their lives.

Being a member of Jesuit High School allows the student, the parent and often their extended family to become part of a lifetime community driven by our shared mission. When I speak with families and alumni, I continue to be moved by the stories I hear and am especially touched by those that share from their heart and remain Marauders for life, long after graduation. These moments are such a powerful reminder that what we do each day at Jacob Lane makes a difference!

BECAUSE OF YOU, STORIES CAN BE TOLD

The generosity of our community creates a bright future for our students

Recently an alum called me about our campaign to renovate the Barry Gym. He told me what a special place the gym was to him and reflected on the strong bonds formed there. The alum shared a little of his life after Jesuit and his college experience that led to his successful career. We traded memories of life at Jesuit—me, my husband and our two sons; he about his son. We talked about the the alum's stories of the faculty, the campus and his special memories of the Barry Gym.

His memories are vivid and strong—you didn't have to see him to experience the emotions evoked by the storytelling. Although he has much for which to be proud and thankful, what moved his heart wasn't his college experience or the position in life he'd achieved; what really moved him was the profound way that Jesuit changed him. Most importantly, he attributed his success and his values to the brotherhood developed here, in this sacred space.

It was this piece that he found to be more important than books and classes. This intangible feeling is what called him to make his contribution.

Another incoming Jesuit parent also proactively reached out this summer to help support Jesuit through an inkind donation. His son has not even attended his first class, yet their family was already filled with compassion and dedication to the school. I was so thankful to speak with this Freshman family and know that both the past and the future all are impacted by our wonderful school.

Jesuit is not just a name or a place; it is a family. Whether you're a current student or alumni family – or even one of the thousands of community members that come to our campus each year for events and gatherings — Jesuit warms the heart and touches the soul. I am so blessed to be a part of it! I am proud to lead an office of dedicated men and women who work hard to ensure that Jesuit remains a vital part of our community for years to come. We do what we can to make sure that all the young men who come to us will have the same opportunity to build their own foundations on which they will stand to love and to serve others.

I look forward to our new school year. I am excited to welcome our families back to school and to welcome our newest members. I am thrilled to know that every day spent on this campus is another day our boys will remember forever.

With great hope and gratitude,

Maureen Banchero Longyear Vice President of Advancement

TIME, TALENT AND TREASURE

Commitment to Stewardship and Philanthropy

REFLECTIONS FROM REV. JOHN P. MCGARRY, S.J., PRESIDENT

To those who have been around the Catholic Church and Catholic schools for a long time, the request for time, talent, and treasure is expected. To others unfamiliar with Catholic education, asking parents and students, alumni and alumni parents, to volunteer and to donate funds might seem unusual, and even annoying. Some say, "I'm paying tuition, so why do I have to contribute more time or money?"

The answer to this question lies in the importance of volunteerism and philanthropy in operating a private school.

Donating time and talent as a volunteer

- Jesuit Schools have always placed an emphasis on service—whether it be within the school or in the community at large. Jesuit High School requires students to complete a number of Christian Service volunteer hours each year, because helping those most in need is a central part of Jesuit education and formation.
- In addition, the parents of our students are required to volunteer at least 25 hours each year where needed; their help is critical to the school's ability to offer successful programs. As the members of our Loyola Guild and Boosters Club will often hear me say: "We can't do it without you!" The gift of people's time and talent is a blessing to Jesuit High School, and it is a major part of what makes our school so effective, so welcoming, and so inclusive.

Donations of additional funds beyond tuition

I am frequently reminded of the misperception that Jesuit is fully funded by tuition and has no need to raise money.

- What many people might not understand is that Jesuit High School does not charge full-cost tuition. We have to make up the difference between what we ask families to pay in tuition and fees and what it actually costs us to educate each of our students on an annual basis. That difference—which we call the gap is approximately $2,500, per student for the 2019–2020 school year.
- Jesuit High School receives no funding from federal, state, or local government, the Catholic Church, or the Jesuit Order. Therefore, to help meet the core expenses of our annual operating budget, we must raise $1.8 million through our two primary fundraisers, the Annual Fund and the Jesuit Auction and Gala.

As you might imagine, discussing money is never easy, however, to deliver our promise to provide a Jesuit education that develops conscientious young men who are intellectually distinguished, morally courageous, and compassionate in service to others, for the greater glory of God, we must do so.

Recently, a parent of one of our current students suggested to Fr. McGarry, S.J. that Jesuit High School explain to the broader constituency the many ways to "Support Jesuit" through financial contributions. Often, campaign names or various terms are used but clarity on what each campaign actually does is unclear.

Throughout each year, we make appeals for support in the following areas:

Tuition Assistance, Capital Projects, Operating Needs, and Planned Giving.

TUITION ASSISTANCE

CURRENT YEAR TUITION GRANTS

Annual tuition assistance awards for students in need during the current year.

SCHOLARSHIP ENDOWMENT

Provides long-term support by investing donated funds. Endowment earnings are used for annual tuition assistance awards. The endowment is an important source for the future viability, sustainability, and accessibility of Jesuit High School. Currently, we are able to give $1.3 million in tuition assistance to 300 families each year. If we had more, we could give more. The need is there. We have established an annual Scholarship Luncheon for the purpose of raising endowment funds.

CAPITAL PROJECTS

BARRY GYM PROJECT

Our current project is the renovation of the Barry Gymnasium, with a total fundraising goal of $2.8 million. Plans include installation of air conditioning, new lighting, state-of-the-art sound and media technology, all new bleachers (including some seatbacks), structural and general aesthetic improvements and more.

PLANNED GIVING

JESUIT LEGACY SOCIETY

Individuals and private foundations may include Jesuit in their charitable planned giving through contributions that include estate planning, gift annuities, wills or living trusts, beneficiary designations or IRA Rollovers.

OPERATING NEEDS

JESUIT AUCTION

Our long-standing Auction and Gala, along with the Annual Fund, are the sources for raising the $1.8 million that we need each year to meet our operating budget needs.

ANNUAL FUND

This general fund supports the dayto-day needs of our students in areas such as academics, athletics, Christian service, campus ministry, visual and performing arts, co-curricular activities, programs, clubs, and so much more.

ALUMNI GIVING

With over 10,000 alumni, their cummulative giving could make significant impact to our future.

PART OF THE LEGACY

Bob Flandrena '67 continues his parents' tradition of enthusiastic support

In 1963, the Sacramento community realized the dream of a Jesuit education for its sons when Jesuit High School first opened its doors to 90 freshmen. What would become Jesuit's first class—the Class of '67—was greeted by a faculty of just five Jesuits and two lay persons. How far we have come since this humble beginning!

Bob Flandrena was part of this historic moment. As a member of the Class of 1967, he and his classmates shared the distinction of being "Seniors" every year; as they progressed from Freshmen, to Sophomores, to Juniors and finally Seniors — they were the "upperclassmen" every year. Flandrena fondly recalls working with his father and others under the direction of Fr. Joseph Barry, S.J., not only in class but on the campus. Together they dug ditches and set the pipe to transform the dirt and the tumbleweeds to the lawns that hosted the first pep rallies.

Proudly recalling his transformation from boy to young adult, Flandrena attributes his Jesuit experience to the confidence with which he has faced most of the important challenges in life.

"The toughest intellectual competition I ever faced was at Jesuit. That I was able to hold my own there gave me confidence that I could do anything if I set my mind to it," Flandrena said. "Looking back, I do remember clearly that during our four years, the Jesuits emphasized that we entered the school as boys and would leave it as men. And to me, that is the biggest benefit; when it became time to become an adult, the transition was effortless."

When asked why he and his wife Dani decided to join the Jesuit Legacy Society, Flandrena shared that he was proudly continuing a tradition begun by his parents – Robert & Marion Flandrena – enthusiastic supporters of both education and of Jesuit High School. He knew that by making a deferred gift to Jesuit through planned giving's Jesuit Legacy Society, he will keep his parents' legacy alive and also ensure that the promise of a Jesuit education will be kept strong for all the Marauders to follow.

"I DO REMEMBER CLEARLY THAT DURING OUR FOUR YEARS, THE JESUITS EMPHASIZED THAT WE ENTERED THE SCHOOL AS BOYS
AND WOULD LEAVE IT AS MEN.
AND TO ME, THAT IS THE BIGGEST
BENEFIT; WHEN IT BECAME TIME TO BECOME AN ADULT, THE TRANSITION WAS EFFORTLESS."
—BOB FLANDRENA '67

The simple gift that keeps one alumnus connected beyond graduation

Ben Ownbey '01 had an incredible experience at Jesuit High School, and he'll be the first person to tell you that.

He comes from a Catholic family, so being able to expand his faith with a Catholic education was positive. He loved his time on Kairos, which really gave him the true sense of Brotherhood that Jesuit has to offer.

"NOT EVERYONE CAN GIVE A LOT. BUT, IF EVERYONE GIVES A LITTLE, IT ADDS UP AND MAKES A DIFFERENCE."

Ownbey also knows that none of that would have been possible without Jesuit's generous donors, as he received tuition assistance throughout his four years.

Ownbey has gone on to a career as a social worker at Kaiser Medical Center. He has carried on the Man for Others mentality into his professional life while also giving back to the Jesuit High School community long after graduation.

Ownbey and his wife, Sarah, have given a monthly donation to Jesuit since December of 2013, something that they budget into their monthly expenses.

The family knows the impact that a Catholic education has had on their lives, especially Ben's experiences at Jesuit. Sarah is a graduate of Loretto High School and the couple have four children at Our Lady of the Assumption School in Carmichael.

"The donation is just something we do, and we don't really think about it," Ben Ownbey said. "It's a very small way to give back and pay it forward."

As part of the renewed efforts in the Alumni Office, Jesuit is hoping for increased alumni giving to the school. Gifts from generous alumni, no matter the size of the donation, are essential to maintaining the Brotherhood for many years to come.

The Ownbeys are a prime example of that.

"Not everyone can give a lot," Ownbey said. "But, if everyone gives a little, it adds up and makes a difference."

HOMECOMING

There's a common thread in the life of Greg Huckabee '68, and it's a lesson that he learned while studying at Jesuit High School: life is about service to others — not consumption, but contribution.

That theme was present at Huckabee's many different stops in life. Huckabee has worked all over the world and held some of the most interesting job titles you'll ever see, all while obtaining a bachelor's degree, three master's degrees, and three law degrees.

"Some people love to golf and some people love to play tennis. I just love to learn," Huckabee said.

Huckabee has worked in Puerto Rico, Poland, Germany, South Korea, and all over the United States. In each of his stops, he tried to make the situation around him better than it was when he arrived.

Huckabee retired from the military in 2003, and immediately sought a position in academia. He had enjoyed his time teaching cadets, and found a job (through an old army connection) at the University of South Dakota. He was selected as the University's Teacher of the Year in 2004 and went on to serve on the Board of Regents at his alma mater, Gonzaga University, in 2007.

For his 50th high school reunion, Huckabee made the trek to Sacramento from South Dakota, arriving in astonishment of how much the school had grown since his last time on campus in 1968.

"I couldn't find my way around," Huckabee said. "I just kept walking around saying, 'Wow!' You could tell that there was a lot of commitment and generosity that produced all those newer buildings, because we didn't have squat."

Walking the campus for the first time in 50 years allowed Huckabee to take a long overdue trip down memory lane. Huckabee was one of the first members of the wrestling team in 1967 and was a JUG "champion" for being late and forgetting homework — proving that some things at Jesuit never quite change. Huckabee also remembers the hard work and ambition that consumed him and his 1968 classmates.

"The hard work at Jesuit is what made it special. It wasn't easy, but we were committed," he said. "Jesuit taught us to think critically."

In the Jesuit tradition, Greg Huckabee has lived his life in pursuit of knowledge, with a dedication to excellence and a spirit of service — truly a Man for Others.

(FRONT) As the Class of 2019 exited the doors of Memorial Auditorium, they transitioned to the next phase of the Brotherhood — Jesuit High School Alumni.

And now, as summer comes to an end (ABOVE), our newest Marauders join the Brotherhood as the Class of 2023. Welcome, Freshmen! We can't wait to hear your future stories as Men for Others.
